Welcome from Bath Rugby

Bath are Back. It is great to be back at Twickenham to contest the Powergen Cup Final.

In an article entitled 'Nobody Does It Better' in the matchday programme for our last final appearance against Leicester in 1996, John Hall wrote "I will never forget, one year, heading towards Twickenham in the team coach, accompanied by a full police escort, undertaking and overtaking all the supporters' coaches and seeing all the fans covered in our names and colours. I looked around at Andy Robinson and caught him wiping away a tear from his eye. That, I think, really epitomises what a wonderful occasion the final is and why we are desperately keen to win again today."

John continued, "Players not only want to do well for themselves but for the club and the people of Bath. It's very much a community thing, something that money cannot buy; the sense of achievement in doing well for everyone, the whole community. Players are fiercely proud of that feeling and do not want to give it up."

“ We may be in the professional era but the genuine team spirit of old exists today throughout the club. ”

Excellent sentiments that still relate to everything we stand for today. We may be in the professional era but the genuine team spirit of old exists today throughout the club and is particularly felt towards our loyal and enthusiastic supporters.

Supporters who will make the occasion a really special event with their true blue, black and white colour; noise and traditional sporting good humour. Thank you all for making your presence felt in such large numbers and I hope your dedication to Bath Rugby is duly rewarded with some silverware this afternoon.
