The Opposition Exeter Chiefs

When Exeter Chiefs were promoted out of the RFU Championship last May and into the Aviva Premiership, it was literally a step into the unknown for the ambitious Devon club.

Dining at English rugby's top table for the first time ever, the Chiefs were well aware their new adventure would provide

For the Chiefs it all began back in September when they opened their season by sinking Gloucester 22-10 in the seasonal opener at Sandy Park. It was a headline-grabbing performance, but one which

Rob Baxter

Having guided Exeter Chiefs into the promised land of the Aviva Premiership for the first time in the club's history, Rob Baxter has already written his name into the history books of the ambitious Devon club.

Now into his second season in full charge of the Chiefs, Baxter is Exeter through and through. Having played for the club for 14 years, ten of which he served as first team captain, he amassed over 300 league and cup appearances for the club before eventually calling time on his playing career.

thought was merely 'beginners luck'.

A week later and the Chiefs threatened to upset the applecart once more as they came close to claiming the much sought after scalp of the Tigers on their own turf. In the end
